From here it's a fairly short hop to Samburu. Arrival at Samburu Sopa in time for lunch. Samburu lies on the fringes of the vast and arid desert once known as the Northern Frontier District, whose heat-scorched scrublands extend all the way to the jade-green waters of Lake Turkana and beyond. Physically dramatic, the 104 sq kilometer landscape of the Reserve features rocky battlements, craggy scarps, dry river beds and fallen boulders rising out of the thorn scrub against a backdrop of the far-distant hills and the great red table mountain known as Lololokwi.

As for wildlife, Samburu provides one of the few sanctuaries in Kenya for the endangered Grevy's zebra, the rare beisa Oryx and the blue-shanked Somali ostrich whilst large herds of elephant roam the gaunt hills during the day before returning to bathe on the banks of the river in the evening.

In January 2002 a lioness in Samburu National Reserve, Northern Kenya astonished the scientific world by adopting a young oryx calf. Kamuniak - or

The Blessed One - as the lioness has been christened by local people was separated from the calf for fear of the calf dying from hunger. The Oryx was taken to Lewa downs conservancy.
